CRIMINAL HISTORY & ACTIVITY

Peace Officers must be credible witnesses in court and must be trusted by the community and public we serve. Therefore, Peace Officer and other applicants are required to disclose any and all criminal behavior or unlawful activity you have been involved in.

During the course of the background investigation, we will be conducting an intensive criminal history check. The Department of Justice, Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI), Interpol, Military authorities, and other law enforcement agencies will be contacted. Therefore, it is vital that you reveal all police contacts, detentions and arrests. This includes charges that were dropped, dismissed or arrest records that were expunged.

This is a pre-employment investigation and not a criminal investigation. We are evaluating your suitability for the position you have applied for. Questions will be asked about any and all criminal activity, behavior or crimes you have committed or been involved in even though you were not caught or arrested. You will have an opportunity to explain your responses.

This questionnaire will be provided to the polygraph examiner.
